Dear Elliot,

At the end of October 2014, I had just gotten home from work and received a text from your AED Link System. To my surprise, it was for an address located on the same street on which I live.

I immediately rushed to the car and responded. When I pulled into the driveway, someone else came out of the house. I asked if there was someone in the home having a possible cardiac event. The reply was "yes." I retrieved the AED that I carry in my car at all times, and went in to help. The family had just gotten off the phone with the 911 operator. Thankfully, the patient was alert but had some shortness of breath and chest pain. I talked to her calmly and monitored her until EMS/Fire rescue arrived (approx. 4-5 min). Needless to say the rescuers were surprised about me being there with my AED! I am just glad that I didn't need to use it.

The patient went to the ER, was treated and returned home later that night. She has since stopped me on the street to express her gratitude.

This is a wonderful alert system and I hope those who have personal AEDs will register them and respond when necessary.

Thanks again,
