

ATRUS SOLE SOURCE VENDOR QUALIFICATIONS

Definition of a “sole source” vendor

A company qualifies as a “sole source” vendor when:

- It is the only firm capable of supplying a commodity or service. This situation may exist when the goods or services are specialized or unique in character.
- The product or service offered by the vendor is the only product or service that is compatible with other incumbent products or services.

Atrus’ sole source vendor qualifications

Atrus, and its patent pending AED Link™ system, meet the criteria for sole source vendor qualification requirements.

- AED Link is the only technology-based software system capable of informing 911 dispatchers of the whereabouts of AEDs at, and nearby, the location of potential sudden cardiac arrest victims
- AED Link is the only technology-based software system capable of associating citizen AED responders with specific publicly-placed AEDs
- AED Link is the only technology-based software system capable of simultaneously and automatically notifying and directing multiple citizen AED responders of the need to retrieve and use an available AED at a specific location
- Atrus is the only company authorized to integrate an AED location identification and citizen AED responder notification system with ProQA® software
- AED Link is the only AED location identification and citizen AED responder notification system that is fully compatible with ProQA software
- Atrus developed and manages the only available National AED Registry™
- Atrus is the only company authorized to provide patent pending AED Link services
